THE OCEAN CEMETERY.

BY DR. W. VAN BUREN.

A NOTELY group are the ocean dead,
In their tombs beneath the waves,
Where the silvery weeds are thickly spread,
To cover the lonely graves.

Where the winds, like solemn mid-night bells,
Are chanting a dirge of woe,
And spirits that live in purple cells Go wandering to and fro.

Those dreamlike sleepers, rigid and cold,
Are a pale shadow of the living, Whose mournful dirges are easily told By the waves that pass along.

Some went down with a horrible shriek Off the blast which rang through the night,
And the waves a requiem seemed to break
And the stars gave out their light.

Some went down when the muffled sea In repose lay calm and still,
When scarcely a breeze danced in the glee,
The indolent sails fell.

And the waves a requiem seemed to break
And the stars gave out their light,
When scarcely a breeze danced in the glee,
The indolent sails fell.

And the waves a requiem seemed to break
And the stars gave out their light,
When scarcely a breeze danced in the glee,
The indolent sails fell.

entire ticket agreed upon by the committee. As to the status of the members elect of either house upon the senatorial and other prominent questions, the best compilers are at fault, and notwithstanding the issue of "Long and short Hair" was pretty squarely made throughout the state, there are circumstances of irregularity and irregularity, and combinations of Sargent, Phelps, McShifter and Cole against Low in the early part of the canvass of last summer that so complicate matters that it is looked upon as impossible to "count noses" until after the Legislature assemble, until which time we must make up our mind to wait. In the meantime, however, we can see a little more complication growing out of the currency, Negro suffrage, San Francisco Bullhead, and kindred questions which a skillful hand may manipulate to his advantage.
Is there such a one in the field? We shall see.
But don't be surprised to see a new man turn up and outstrip all the old hands.

We are just now having a serious time here with "high grade" and low water, which you will remember that the very reverse of the used to be our great source of difficulty—low grade and high water.
The inconveniences of low water are chiefly felt by our City fathers, the Steam Navigation Company, and the hotels and bars along the levee. The fathers, however, have caused to be built a wing dam to turn the bulk of the water to this side of the river, in the hope of removing the sand from the channel in front of the city, but as yet the only effect has been to move the principal bar a little lower down, and, as a consequence, to compel the steamers to land a little lower down; also, sometimes have hope that it may yet accomplish the object of its proprietors, but I am compelled to be a little skeptical, and very much fear that a steam "dredging machine" will be found to be the only remedy.
Of course when that fact is ascertained we will have spent enough money to have built two and lost a year besides. The high grade is particularly rough on pedestrians, and the occupants and patrons of buildings that are on the raise, which is the condition of a good share of second street between J and K at the present writing, and the probability is that we will have from one to three blocks in this fix for a long time to come.

I made mention of the prevalence of the ague, in the beginning. Well, it appears that the celestials (not the angels before alluded to) have been very much perplexed with this ague, and after a full consultation of all the oracles, have concluded that it is a visitation of the Devil, and have conceived the plan of driving his satanic majesty away with drums, gongs and fire crackers; and having obtained permission from the city authorities to hold a carnival for three full days, have made preparations to begin on a grand scale in the morning.
They have built a kind of temple and enthroned effigies of the old gentlemen and his chief aids, which they are to stuff with combustibles and explode at the minute proceeding. The noise will be hideous, and it was rumored that the demon can, of course, be no doubt of all this striking terror to the hearts of all demons, great and small, and making them decamp at once. It is believed that they would not have proceeded to such extreme measures had it not been for the earthquake, the wholesale slaughter of their countrymen on the Yosemite.

The ceremonies were inaugurated this evening on the lake bounded by J street on the south, with three boats loaded respectively with drums and gongs, music-makers, and a fire party. The noise was hideous, and it was rumored that the demon had already taken flight up the railroad. Look out for him up your way about Sunday. If he brings the ague with him over to the Drug store and get sixteen grains of Quinine, and a bottle of "Cholagogue" and after the third dose and the fourth dose you will understand why it is that we sympathize down here with people who have the chills, and why I have assumed the task of your delinquent scribbler who was won't sign himself
"M. T."

A BOY AND A DOG FALL A DISTANCE OF 130 FEET.
We noticed yesterday morning the sudden disappearance of Little Tommy Roark, of this city, aged three years, son of John Roark, of this city.
Last evening, about six o'clock, the news spread through the city that the little fellow had been found.
Upon receipt of the intelligence we repaired to the place where the boy had been found. The little fellow lay upon a lounge, and Dr. Brydley dressing his wound of about two inches in length which Tommy had received on his right upper lip. The facts in relation to the loss and recovery of this child, as we gathered them from his father, are substantially as follows: The boy had been in company with a Newfoundland dog, about nine o'clock on Friday morning last. He was missed soon afterward, and immediate search instituted, but from that time until a late hour last evening all efforts to discover him proved fruitless. The father, the father and friends had scoured the city, visiting shafts, tunnels, vacant houses, outhouses and every conceivable place where the child could possibly have fallen or gotten into, but all in vain. And strange to say no trace of the dog could be found. The father, the father and friends had scoured the city, visiting shafts, tunnels, vacant houses, outhouses and every conceivable place where the child could possibly have fallen or gotten into, but all in vain.

INFAMOUS PICTURES.—Our readers will doubtless remember that some two or three weeks since, A. P. Johnson, a photographic artist, living in San Francisco, was arrested by the police of that city charged with making pictures of a most lewd and obscene character. The San Francisco daily Flag in noticing the arrest, says:

Since the first disclosure and arrest of A. P. Johnson, charged with publishing and printing obscene photographs, by a careful and diligent search and investigation, more startling and disgusting evidence of a public scandal has been brought to light, which, if the guilt can be clearly proven, the perpetrator of such a heinous crime could be charged with the most heinous crime known to the law. For some time past suspicion had been fixed on several photographic galleries in the city where it was supposed such business was done, but no conclusive evidence could be obtained, and the vice seemed a more formidable task. Officer McCormick, through laboring under great difficulties, at last got a clue which led to the detection and arrest of A. P. Johnson.

The facts of the case, as far as developed, are such as make parents tremble for the safety of their daughters, and cause the blush of shame to mantle the cheek of every virtuous woman in the city. With an operator, at one time in the employ of Mr. Johnson, and with other parties, a great number of amorphous, photographs and drawings of this kind with the negatives from which they were taken, have been found, which were taken in his gallery. Many of the pictures are imitated portions of the nude trunks of some woman, who, for the accomplishment of their lustful purposes, prevailed upon their obscene desires, take a copy of the two original parts of a picture, thus rendering the one a complete and perfect photograph. With pictures of this formation, so skillfully manufactured as to obliterate all traces of imitation to an expert the virtuous woman of the city would be completely at the mercy of every low-born and dissolute person who chose to fix a stain upon any one so unfortunate as to get into their clutches. The wretches who would perpetrate such an act of injustice and obscenity is not fit to receive the benefits of a civilized community. Officer McCormick deserves great credit in his efforts to ferret out the crime and bring to justice the public offenders.

FROM THE OLD REGION.—We learn from the Humboldt Times that the old district of Upper Mattole is attracting considerable attention, further prospecting and examination leading to the belief that it is nothing inferior as an oil bearing region to Lower Mattole or Bear River. Mr. Pugh and others are getting in the machinery and provisions preparatory to commence boring. Mr. John T. Young is now in San Francisco purchasing goods for his store which he is about opening there. The packers are busy, with freights up to four and a half cents.

In Lower Mattole and North Fork the wells are all going down with less trouble and annoyance than at any former time. Mr. Nohls, of Joel's Flat, has succeeded in getting his pipe down in good shape, and is intended to commence pumping on Tuesday night. At the Allen place, the progress is being made with continued good prospects of success. Their wells are down respectively, 105, 135, 165 and 170 feet. The Union well is producing more oil than ever. They have cleaned it out and find an additional supply of oil, and it is of a lighter shade than that heretofore obtained. Still, however, they have trouble with their pump, they have not succeeded in making it work satisfactorily, and are often compelled to resort to the use of the sand pump when filling their kegs.

On Bear River operations are progressing favorably. Mr. Watters, at the Hawley well has his pipe down and getting along nicely. Mr. Kirk, on the Johnson farm, has his derrick up and has probably commenced sinking his well before this time. At the Fortunate company's well work is advancing successfully. This company is proceeding upon a plan of its own, and differently from that pursued by any other now at work, with how much of good judgment or advantage remains to be demonstrated.

The shaft, which by all companies has been sunk down a short distance previously to the commencement of boring, is by this company being carried down to a much greater depth, the walls being cribbed and secured as it descends, and it is now down something over one hundred feet, and will likely be sunk still deeper. By this plan the company has at least avoided the delay, trouble and annoyance of getting pipe fast, and having to dig out, loosening drills, etc., etc. The sinking of their shaft has developed an immense bed of strata of shale. Eighty feet of it have been passed, and the extent has not yet been determined. At the H. S. Smith's well on the Caslin place a depth of two hundred and fifty feet has been reached. At Oil Creek Captain Gier is making preparations to put in the pump. This well flows occasionally, a small quantity of oil being perceptible with the water, and boils like a cauldron all the time.

Most of the companies are enclosing or housing in their derricks and otherwise preparing for the approaching winter.

SELLING FRET.—The Virginia Enterprise of October 31st says:

The first and only sale that has been effected thus far in the original Enterprise claim, Excelsior District, was made last Friday. Five feet were sold for $1,000, being $200 per foot. Knowing it to be a good thing thing, the fortunate locators have occasionally refused to sell, and up to the present time only twenty-six feet have ever been decided at all, as may be seen by examination of the county records of Nevada county, California. We make this statement to undeceive people who have been humbugged by the best of men, and persons who pretend to have Enterprise ground for sale. There is none of the original claim in the market.
